

Experimental design considerations

- For all experiments:
- 1. Use a large enough sample size
 - 2. Subset a specific tissue type when able
 - 3. Sampling points and exposure times should be chosen to appropriately address hypotheses
 - 4. Isolate samples and immediately snap-freeze in liquid nitrogen to quench metabolic activity

